Lawyers Of Distinction's primary mission is to promote excellence and diversity in the legal profession. We acknowledge excellence in specific areas of practice, both civil and criminal and have representation in all 50 states. We have no political affiliations or plaintiff vs. defendant bias. Members are either nominated by their peers or through independent research. Membership is limited to the top 10% of attorneys in the United States.

We promote our Members through various media outlets both in print and online. In 2017 we have advertised in The New York Times, The National Bar Journal, USA Today, American Airlines, Trial Magazine, a Times Square billboard and many others. Our Members procure cases through referrals from our network of attorneys nationwide as well as co-counsel relationships. The general public uses L.O.D. as a way to retain qualified representation from attorneys who have already been vetted for excellence. Currently, our website receives over 5,000 daily active users searching for representation. This analytical trend is growing each month.

Lawyers of Distinction members have been selected based upon a review and vetting process from our Selection Committee. After a thorough review of credentials, attorneys are nominated by our Selection Committee. Lawyers cannot pay for this nomination. These potential candidates who meet the criteria of our screening process have demonstrated a high degree of peer recognition and professional competence, placing them in the top 10% of all attorneys in the United States. Attorneys may nominate other peers they feel warrant recognition or self-nominate. These candidates undergo the same rigorous review process. Lawyers of Distinction shall not offer membership to more than 10% of attorneys in any given state. Lawyers of Distinction uses its own independent criteria, including both objective and subjective factors in determining if an attorney can be recognized as being within the top 10% of attorneys in the United States in their respective field. This designation is based upon the proprietary analysis of the Lawyers of Distinction organization alone and is not intended to be endorsed by any of the 50 United States Bar Associations or The District of Columbia Bar Association.
